Description of the research unit

The Veterinary and Animal Science Research Centre (CECAV), hosted in the University of Trás-os-Montes and Alto Douro (UTAD), is a National Research Unit funded by the Portuguese National Agency for Science, Research and Technology (FCT).

Since 2021, CECAV has been part of the Associated Laboratory of Animal Science and Veterinary Science (AL4AnimalS) together with CECA (Oporto) and CIISA (Lisbon), whose status as an “Associated Laboratory” was approved in 2021.

The main objective of CECAV is to develop research in animal and veterinary science to generate new knowledge in animal health and welfare and in the production, safety and quality of meat and meat products. To achieve this objective, its activity focuses on the following main topics:

i) Integrated Meat Quality in an approach “From the field to the fork”

The main objectives in the Integrated Meat Quality area (1) to develop research focused on the use of in vivo non-invasive techniques as tools to evaluate body composition and to estimate carcass composition and quality of farm animal species; and (2) to assess factors that may affect sensory and chemical characteristics of meat and meat products and evaluate strategies (e.g. packing, natural additives) to control spoilage and pathogenic microflora

ii) Veterinary Public Health under the “One Health concept”

The research in Veterinary Public Health is focused on two interrelated topics: (1) diagnostic and prognostic of factors related to biological issues and the use of biomaterials for tissues regeneration, using animal models and contributing to animal and human health and welfare, and (2) the study of prevalence and integrative epidemiological studies on zoonosis affecting animals and foodborne pathogens from food of animal origin and contributing to their monitoring and to the evaluation of strategies for its mitigation.

The organization of CECAV is included in the regulation published in the Portuguese official journal (Diário da República, 2nd Serie, nº36, 20th February 2012).

The governing bodies of CECAV are:

-The Scientific Council (SC);

-The Director,

-The Executive Board

The Scientific Council is composed of all integrated members and meets regularly (3 or 4 times a year). In addition to the main competencies contained in its regulation, the Scientific Council promotes internal cooperation, fosters dialogue and the exchange of ideas.

The Director is elected by the Scientific Council every three years and among his competences is the choice of the Executive Board. The Directive Board is composed of the Director and three Vice-Directors. Besides ensuring the administrative and financial management of CECAV, the main of the Executive Council are to prepare the documents to submit to the Scientific Council for approval and propose to the Scientific Council the allocation of financial resources to the different research activities and topics of CECAV.

Following the regulations of FCT, CECAV has an External Advisory Committee, composed of three experts in the scientific areas of CECAV: José Lorenzo Rodrigues (Technological Meat Centre), Laura Peña (Complutense University of Madrid) and Ana Afonso (European Food Safety Authority). They are expected to visit CECAV twice or three times during 2020-2023. However, due to the pandemic situation, the first visits will only occur in 2022.

In 2021, CECAV includes 56 integrated members (47 researchers from UTAD, 6 researchers from institutions outside UTAD, 3 postdoctoral members with a scholarship). CECAV also has 17 doctors as collaborators and 31 PhD students, 12 of them are scholarship holders.

The criterion required to be an integrated member of CECAV is based on its scientific productivity in the former three years. Criteria for distribution of the FCT base funding are also centred on the scientific productivity of the researchers, which is scored/graded according to the number, type (book and book chapter, full paper, review article, short note) and quality (quartile in category) of the manuscripts published on international peer reviewed journals (SCOPUS or ISI).

The facilities of CECAV are located at UTAD, mainly at the School of Veterinary and Agrarian Sciences and includes several laboratories and experimental animal facilities. The main laboratories that support the research activity of CECAV are: laboratory of technology, quality and food safety, laboratory of histopathology and veterinary pathological anatomy, laboratory of parasitology, laboratory of medical microbiology, laboratory of animal nutrition, laboratory of reproduction. The animal experimental facilities include an experimental unit for the study of carcasses and meat, the experimental facilities of animal nutrition, the hunting studies center and several experimental units of animal production. The veterinary hospital of UTAD is also an important structure for the scientific activity of CECAV researchers.

The CECAV was granted 533,000 euros over four years as basal financing and 355 000 Euros as programmatic financing. In addition, the research projects running at CECAV also had external financing of 524,240 euros from financed projects. The detailed information about these projects is presented in the “Funded projects and thematic networks” section.

CECAV's main achievements include: increasing the sustainability of meat production; controlling and reducing the impact of zoonoses and zoonotic agents on human health; the reduction of potentially carcinogenic substances in cured and dried meat products by natural additives and the contribution to a better understanding of animal and human cancer from a “one health” perspective.

Scientific activity

The following aspects guide the CECAV activities:

- (1) to promote research with impact in the animal and veterinary sciences field, through the participation in research projects and thematic networks and by the cooperation with other national and international institutions;
- (2) to disseminate knowledge through the organization and/or the participation of scientific events and by the publication of articles in a top-ranking scientific journal;
- (3) to develop post-graduation formation by supporting the 3rd cycle of Animal Science and the 3rd cycle of Veterinary Science.
- (4) to promote the transfer of knowledge to stakeholders and society.

Formation

In 2021, 30 doctoral students (including 15 students with a scholarship) are developing their research work at CECAV. Most of these PhD students are from the Doctoral programmes anchored in CECAV; the Animal Science and Veterinary Science doctoral program and Animal Science doctoral program. During 2021, 3 PhD students were finished their doctoral thesis.

Most of the researchers at CECAV are professors and they also develop an academic career, establishing a very important link between teaching and research for undergraduate and master students. A large number of master students are involved in the research activities of CECAV while they develop their dissertation work. In 2021, the orientation of master students (62 students) continued as an important activity at CECAV.

This lists below include Doctoral thesis, Master dissertations and Graduation reports concluded in 2021 and oriented by researchers of CECAV.
